The complaints that have been whined into the public ear by a set of chronic moss-back clothing merchants whose business is lagging behind for lack of vim and method, touch any subject, from early cut worms to the admission of Dakota. No mercantile venture ever made has employed such an increase as ours, and to keep it spurred up we offer inducements this week that will make your hair stand on end in amazement and delight.

11.89

For Choice This Week Only of Any $15.00, $18.00, $20.00, $22.00, $23.00, $24.00, $25.00 Suit or Overcoat

In our house. These Suits were made for us, and are elegantly finished, having a genteel, attractive custom air that is seldom attained. They were good value at their former prices, but doubly so now. Take your choice for Eleven Eighty-Nine. We have all styles in plain or fancy Mixtures, Rough or Smooth Textures. Our Overcoat offering, if anything, is richer than the Suits, and comprises "Lord Chumley" Capes, Ulsters, English Box, Medium and Extra Long Sacks, etc., made of Venetians, Elysians, Kerseys, Meltons, Chinchillas, Castor Beavers, and so on. Choice, Eleven Eighty-Nine.

HOW TO SUCCEED IN TRADE

A TALK WITH THE GREATEST MERCHANT IN THE WORLD.

John Wanamaker of Philadelphia Tells How He Reversed Rule to Fail a Year Ago Today Just Six Months He Has Been Superintending Both Stores—Answering the Question—Advertising—Cash Sales—Future of Department Stores—Still Room for Better Ideals Worth Striving For.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—At 9 o'clock this morning John Wanamaker, the great merchant of Philadelphia, New York, and the world, was found at his desk in the extensive store of the second floor of the main one of the two buildings with which his name is associated. He was busy with his mail, as he has been for a long time every morning, for which a record is kept of the number of letters received, no matter how late in the evening he may have left the store. Mr. Wanamaker has a large pile of papers, such as one sees in the offices of newspaper editors, on another desk in front of him, and several well-written letters were there, too. Mr. Wanamaker is a rapid worker, and he has been up for some hours, carefully sorting out his mail, with a quick eye.

He is a man of average size, but with an unusually large head. His hair is now to be described, it is not reminiscent of the strength and power one sees in the face of the person, nor of the quiet earnestness and energy evidence which are conspicuous in the face of Samuel Fish, who, with Wanamaker, are the three great merchants of the world, but is more evident evidence of vigor in quantity, of great executive force, a grasp of fundamentals, and that sort of far-sightedness which brings quick decision and prompt action. It is a handsome face, which seems to tell readily beforehand to all acquaintances the result. The absence of the grey element adds to an impression of youthfulness, for did the man not set back decades the years he has passed in order to read and have a merry Christmas Eve?

Inasmuch as one mentioned what all have guessed was [illegible] Wanamaker this morning I was naturally in my mind to say that Wanamaker was the most successful merchant in the world. We do not say that because the press reports are [illegible] to read so and have a merry Christmas Eve [illegible].

"I suppose you are interested when all these papers say," quoth he, "that I will sell out the business I have practically created to some one else? Well, I want to say that Wanamaker will not be sold. We do not propose to sell out. We have no intention of selling out. We have no intention of closing out. We have no intention of doing anything except to go on with the business. We have no intention of selling out to any one. We have no intention of selling out to any one. We have no intention of selling out to any one

HOW KEELY ROAD WORKS.

LORE WHAT A QUARTER OF A MILE UP IN AN AVALANCHE IS MOVED.

In This Many Attempts but the People Have to Think It Was for the Practical Demonstration Engineering Skill Is Investigated by the Experts, and, Although the Report Was Favorable, They Spotted the Foundation with Gaping Pipe Mouths Beneath the Building.

Quincy, Mass., Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Ever since people got it into their heads to regard the Keely motor scheme rightly as a fad or a practical invention, despite the fact that system has been before the public it has not yet passed beyond the exhibition stage. Hard-working believers, have labored to overcome several minor, and such problems as the cost has existed has been the result of the Keely motor. These improvements in the power have a short account of years, something less than a quarter of a mile, in operation in the suburbs of Quincy. Many newspapers have given brief accounts of the discharge of the road and cars, and in each case they have proved successful. Many eminent engineers have examined the road, and all concede to its merits, but the only criticism offered is that being the power is a trifle it would prove practical and satisfactory on a large scale.

The Massachusetts Railroad Commissioners a year and more ago, not satisfied with the sufficient evidence laid on record, gave the matter a thorough investigation. Gen. George Moore of New Hampshire, a widely-known and independent civil engineer, was the commissioner detailed to report back the experiments. He decided to go report back the experiments. He decided to go report back the experiments. He decided to go
